237 years

Mama Giò may be fairly new, but we follow a solid inn heritage. In the year 1785, Hagalunds Inn was built here. The spot was perfect, close to the road that connects Uppsala and Stockholm. And it got popular to take a break here before heading into the busy city.

We could take a guess that brandy & beer were served more than wines & cocktails back then, and probably no pasta as well.

But still, people probably had a nice time here since the Inn was open until 1956. Then it was a county council house for 64 years before Hotel Giò and Mama Giò opened in 2020. Cheers and welcome!
